Care of Swine

Comfortable Hogs Always Make the Best Gains
Farm animals must be comfortable in order that they do as well as possible. This is especially true of swine, since no farm animal suffers as much from extremes of heat and cold as the hog. Most men prefer to feed logs in the spring and fall, for they say-the logs gene feed than during summer and winter. This is perhaps in a large measure true only because they are more comfortable.
LA. Weaver, of the University of Missouri college of agriculture, mentions some of the things which may be done to make fattening logs comfortable.

Storing Potatoes

Valuable Advice to Follow in Order to Save Loss

"It is bad practice to store potation in large bins or pits," says Prof. in the profession of the profession of agriculture. Not infrequently potatoes are piled to a depth of ten to fifteen feet, the pile being correspondingly large in the other two manner they are almost certain to go through a rather violent sweating or curing process, during the course of which the tubers in the central subjected to a dangerously high temperature. of which the tubers in the contral portion of the pile are frequently subjected to a dangerously high temperature.

This is especially thue if the tubers of the subject of the pile are frequently are alghtly immature, or were not dry and free from moist soil when a subject of the pile are alghtly immature, or were not dry and free from moist soil when a side temperature is high, making it difficult to lower the inside temperature of the pile and the pile are ture of the house.

Overheating from all of these pile are ture of the house, and the pile are ture of the house, and the pile. This is most easily accomplished by including the pile. The division walls may consist of two-by-four uprights on the two-inch it ciphths by four-inch strips of any desired length, leaving a one-inch space between each strip. This gives a ventilated partition, which can be of any height and length desired and an easy avenue of escape for both heat and moisture provided. It is prospered to the pile of the pil

Canadian Northern Excells in Equipment and Service

Another year is approaching to its close, and with it the thoughts of many Chinook persons are turned to the old folks at home, The festive season brings with it memories of long ago—cherished memories that can never fade away—and even though it may only be a short time since one last paid a visit home, thoughts of another trip will not be denied Extra preparation by the trans portation companies have been made, to carry the exodus of people who will make a visit to their old home. No railway company is better equipped for the conveying the people this season than the Canadian Northern, For several weeks officials have been preparing for a heavy travel dur-ing the next two months, and ing the next two months, and this railway now offers a service unequalled by any other road.

It does not matter where the Chinock and district people want to visit. An opportunity is pre-sented to all. If it is in the East, the Canadian Northern will have on sale, from Dec. 1st to 31st, tickets at greatly reduced fares, good to return within 3 months, and stopovers are permitted at most points en route. Fixing Wheat Prices

This fixed prices of wheat here put the wheat pandler out of business. After the wheat was out of the farmers' hands this summer, the speculator got busy and pushed the price up an extra dollar; the imilers promptly put up the price of flour and the bakers boosted the price of our and the bakers boosted the price of our and the bakers boosted the price of the present year by the price-faxing plan. It would be very fine thing for Canada if the price of wheat could be fixed each year to allow a reasonable profit to the wheat growners of the price of the price
